

Buck & Hickman, a subsidiary company of BSS, is one of the UK's leading distributors of Tools, Maintenance and Health & Safety products and operates from 25 branches nationwide.

Already working on a rodent control project close by to their Ellesmere Port branch in South Wirral, Prokill took the pro-active step of contacting adjoining businesses to offer a free survey and determine the scope of the problem. "It is vitally important to gain a full picture of the environment so that a comprehensive and effective treatment plan can be deployed" said Mark Davidson, Branch Manager of Prokill Wirral.

"We are grateful that Prokill took the initiative to approach us. Following on from their observations we initially appointed Prokill for a 6 month period and throughout this time they consistently demonstrated their value. As a result, we have now contracted Prokill to provide long term protection to the site to reinforce our commitment to Health and Safety for customers and employees alike" commented Jeff Nuttal, Branch Manager

"Effective pest control can be distilled down to the fundamentals of Proofing, Hygiene and long term control and monitoring. We always take a holistic approach to our solutions and as part of our recommendations to Buck and Hickman we provided enhanced shutter systems to better defend the perimeter of the building" added Mark.
